DAY DREAM BOOK

Published by the Senior Class of 1942.
Engraved by The Jahn and Ollier Engraving Co.
Printed by Painesville Publishing Co.

Amidst the drama of a conflicting world, the Senior Class of 1942 presents a lighter drama, the true life record of moral, educational, and spiritual growth in Bay Village High School.

Prologue

God grant us Sight: that we may see
The task which lies before us,
That we may meet it face to face
And answer it in chorus
That we are Youth, alive and free!
God grant us Sight that we may see!

God grant us Wisdom every hour
That we may face our problems knowing
That we possess the strength, the power
To keep this great land going.
To keep the light in freedom's tower,
God grant us Wisdom every hour!

God grant us Love: that we may know
The joy that through the years
Has warmed the hearts of peaceful men
And washed their souls of tears.
That we may keep it ever so,
God grant us Love that we may grow!

THE STAGE

“All the world’s a stage . . .”

Wilbur J. Springer

Superintendent

Students are justly proud of Bay's dynamic Superintendent of Schools, W. J. Springer, who is so fond of sports that he coaches track in addition to his duties as superintendent.

Following graduation from Alliance High School he served a three-year apprenticeship as a tool and die maker and then worked a nine-hour night shift at this trade during his first year at Mount Union College. Here he received the Bachelor of Science degree.

Discarding plans to become a doctor, he enrolled in Harvard University where he served as an instructor and received his Master of Education degree.

Among his many successes he can credit his sales experiences in recent years.

Mr. Springer has many plans for the future advancement of the Bay Village schools. With his aid Bay should occupy a prominent place among the first rate school systems in the country.

Few would suspect from a casual glance at our witty principal, Mr. H. R. Secrist, that he spends much of his spare time repairing and developing electrical gadgets at home; yet he had served in the capacity of electrician long before starting his career in education.

Mr. Secrist, commonly known to the student body as "Coach," came to Parkview in 1929 as a teacher-coach after graduating from Wooster College with a Bachelor of Science degree. His Master of Arts degree from Western Reserve University he obtained shortly after being made principal here in 1940.

His pleasant personality and sincere qualities insure him popularity with his students, even as his rapid rise in the teaching profession seems to insure superior and enduring leadership for Parkview High School.

School Board

Back of the scenes moves an indispensable "crew" — our School Board. They are always on the alert securing properties, dispensing finances, choosing our teaching "cast," and watching our school system move at an even tempo.

We are indeed fortunate to have on the Bay Village School Board a group of men and women so versatile and successful in their own fields of business, and yet so willing to give freely of time and energy at their own expense and sacrifice.

The major event of the year for the class of '43 was the purchase of the junior jackets. This year the girls' jackets were reversible, blue gabardine. The boys' were of the same blue gabardine and had a removable sheepskin lining. All the jackets were ornamented by the class insignia designed by Fred Dutton.

The junior boys were active in all the scholastic sports. The football lettermen were: George Nyerges, Harry Craig, Bob Estill, and Dan Aspery.

The class had the unusual honor of having one of its members, Bob Berger, president of the Hi-Y and another, Connie Watson, editor of the Bay Window.

Three new students joined the junior class this fall. They were: Robert Estill, Janice Peak, and Mildred Holter. Dudley and Robert Price returned from Michigan and re-entered the class.

Mr. Willard G. Schumaker acted as faculty adviser.

The sensational sophomores are quite athletically inclined. In football three boys—Jack Rossland, Dick Humphrey, and Don Carpenter—obtained their letters. Four members played on the varsity basketball squad: Jack Burke, Don Carpenter, Tommy Toth, and Dick Humphrey.

One of the most outstanding personalities of the class is La Verne Burden. She won national honors at Columbus for singing for the National Federation of Music Clubs. She also placed second in piano playing.

Coasting—on and off the toboggans—and skiing, plus plenty of hot food, added up to one night of fun on one of the coldest nights of the year.

The old saying, "all brawn and no brains," didn't hold true however, for this Class of '44. The majority of the sixty members were on the honor roll or merit list each grading period.

The class of '45 was slipped into the spotlight by actively participating in school activities. In football, eleven boys took their share of ups and down; in volleyball, the girls' team won the tournament.

In the yearly "Annual" contest, the freshmen received high honors when 87% of the class purchased Bay Blue Books.

The seventh grade is proud to have Dorothy Loede, Lois Voigt, Kay Cherry, Lois Wilberg, George Chandler, Pete Wolfe, and Jim Frazier in the school band.

Since there is an unusual amount of musical aptitude and ability present in individuals of this class, one activity of the first semester was the musical program produced under the direction of Miss Mabie, for the "get-together" of the parents of these pupils.

The class also had a class party and sold candy at the Bay-Strongsville basketball game.

Miss Emily Paspek and Mr. C. G. McColloch acted as the faculty advisers.

Student Council

The Student Council of Parkview High School is an elective body composed of twenty-one students elected from the homerooms and various clubs and organizations throughout the school.

The student body elects the president of the council from a group of students designated by the council as being eligible. One member of the council's tribunal is elected from the high school at the same time. The other four members are elected by the council from within its own membership, thus creating a tribunal of five students who act as the disciplinary force of the council.

This year, as is customary, the council installed, wherever it was possible, honor study halls and established a monitor system. Ushers for auditorium periods and fire drills were also appointed by the council.

Tickets, programs, and refreshments for all home football games were under the council's jurisdiction this year. During the basketball season, refreshment concessions were distributed among the homerooms and school organizations; permission to sponsor dances after basketball games was also vested in the council.

As an agent of mutual assistance to students and the people of Bay Village, a Placement Bureau was organized and operated by the Student Council during the past school year. This bureau acted as a clearing house between students who wished part-time work and the people of the village who wanted their help.

Each year the Student Council awards to one boy and one girl of the senior class a citizenship cup, signifying that this girl and boy have been recognized as the outstanding citizens of their class.

They are selected by a committee composed of: the principal, the senior class adviser, and the student council adviser. These, in making their choice, are guided by a definite set of rules set up by the Student Council. This year the girl chosen was Irma June Schmidt and the boy selected was Bill Quayle.

In January the council took time out to enjoy a dinner party, which was pronounced a great success by all concerned.

In the spring the outgoing council gave their annual spring weiner roast for the incoming council, thus finishing the year with a flourish.

The Bay Window has been operating this past year under an entirely new system. This school newspaper is issued every Friday morning to the students of Parkview without charge. It is mimeographed by the production staff in the office. This was done in an effort to get "hot news" to the readers and to keep the production costs low. Most students feel that the experiment has been, on the whole, successful because it has done away with "dry" news and month-old "scoops."

Next year the staff will greatly miss the services of the two senior editors, Bill Quayle and June Craig. Both have done outstanding work throughout the year.

The National Honor Society

The Parkview Chapter of the National Honor Society was founded by the Class of 1940. Entrance into this national society is based on scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Candidates are selected through a committee of the faculty.

To the 21 girls and 9 boys previously admitted to membership six more students were added this year.

The Leader Club

Sportsmanship, leadership, honesty, dependability, ability, and scholarship are the standards which have been set up by the Girls' Leader Club for membership in their organization.

The purpose of the club is to promote interest in sports and to develop leaders in the school.

Six new members were welcomed into the club this year at which time an initiation took place in the gym followed by a dinner prepared by the girls.

A dance was given following the Fairview basketball game. The proceeds were used in purchasing mirrors for the restrooms.

In an assembly at the end of the basketball season, the Leader Club presented to the school the Bay High Hymn.

Friendship Club

The Friendship Club of Bay Village has been a definite part of the curriculum of Parkview High School for the past fourteen years.

Its motto — "look up, lift up" — is a familiar one. The triangle — which signifies the mind, body, and spirit of a girl — with the circle around it which is symbolic of everlasting friendship, is the symbol of the club.

Mrs. Bortz, as adviser for many years, has seen many Friendship Club girls come and go, each new group building toward friendship, sincerity, and dependability.

A few of this year's activities include a dance at the beginning of the first semester, an impressive recognition service held for the purpose of taking in new members, and a rummage sale given to raise funds for the annual banquet held at the end of the year.

Many interesting speakers contributed their services to the club throughout the year, many of them speaking on "Seeking the Good Life," which was the theme chosen by the club this year.

Service projects included: an after-school dance, the proceeds going as a donation to the World Fellowship Fund; the dressing of dolls for the Associated Charities to distribute at Christmas time; and the making of valentines for the patients at Lakewood hospital.

The annual Christmas formal and a Mothers' and Daughters' tea were given during the year; and the Dads were entertained at a Wimpy Feed given in the spring.

The club ended its year with the annual Pa-Ma-Me Banquet, which features the installation of the incoming officers and a farewell to the seniors.

Hi-Y

A dinner in the cafeteria followed by a formal initiation started the Hi-Y program for this year. With the support of the Friendship Girls, the Hi-Y sponsored a "Play Nite" in October.

Dances after the Dover football and basketball games and a barn dance were considered successful.

The gym was secured for every other Wednesday and a gym league was established. The boys also enjoyed a few swimming parties at the Central Y.

Four representatives were sent to the State Hi-Y Convention.

Band

This year the band has assumed its place as a regular school subject in the high school curriculum with rehearsals scheduled in school time and credit toward graduation being granted for band work. Mr. H. Victor Perkins has directed the band during its initial year as a school subject. Fanfares of trumpets, letter formations, and snappy marching characterized the band's appearances at all the football games. This added much to the enthusiasm and enjoyment of the spectators.

But for the greater part of the year, work was centered on new music for the annual band concert, which was an outstanding event in the last semester.

The band mothers have conducted two successful paper sales in raising money to finish payments on the new uniforms acquired last year.

First row: M. Barnes, L. Willberg, K. Cherry, N. Ashcraft.

Drama Class

"Gone are the days!" Yes, sir, that really applies around Bay High now, that is in regard to the old class Meller-Dramers. All theatrical productions are now being taken over by the dramatic group, under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie Mink.

Letting no grass grow under their feet, the group smashed into the news by presenting a program of four one-act plays. But this was merely basic training for that super-solid-senior play, "Spring Dance." Now just what was it that was most sprightly about that play? Oh, yes, the thing had two separate casts, one for each night of presentation. Members of the Blue cast will not quickly forget the confusion of the missing telegrams. Nor is the White cast likely to forget the bedroom wall falling down in a tense moment at dress rehearsal.

Then, while the memories of gag lines from "Spring Dance" were still lingering, work began on "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." Honors were carried off by the cast of 13.

To each member of the pioneer class of dramatics there is an individual and exciting definition for the simple phrase, "On Stage."

SENIOR PLAY

(White Cast)

Seated: P. Senff, P. Smith, J. Oliver, D. Bussman, G. Kick.

Standing: J. Dahlstrom, A. Oster, N. Ashcraft, K. Smith, J. Craig, B. Schwing, P. Austin, H. Merseburg.

The National Thespian Dramatic Society

"... All those wishing to become members will signify by saying 'I do!' " —and thus Chapter 494 of the National High School Thespian Society was founded at Parkview. The charter members were inducted by means of a "tres" elaborate initiation ceremony. The troupe was sponsored by Mrs. Marjorie G. Mink and was conducted under the leadership of:

Don Bussman	President
Irma June Schmidt	Vice-President
Nancy Ashcraft	Secretary
Bob Byar	Treasurer

To be acceptable in the organization, one must have attained dramatic achievements as set down by Thespian law, and those requirements are stringent. The charter members included thirteen students, the officers, plus: Beverly Christian, June Craig, John Dahlstrom, Ted Dutton, Betty Karcher, Carol Karcher, Ardelle Oster, Bob Schwing, Ken Smith, and Peg Smith.

THESPIAN MOTTO:

"Act well your part; there all the honor lies."

First row: Mr. W. G. Shumaker, G. Nyerges, B. Quayle, B. Smith, T. Case, D. Frazier, D. Aspery, H. Craig, B. Byar, Mr. H. R. Secrist.

Second row: C. Ganyard, D. Humphrey, J. Rossland, D. Carpenter, L. Frazier, B. Schwing, P. Senff, J. Oliver, J. Harris.

Third row: T. Aspery, J. Schwing, J. Burke, T. Toth, S. Nyerges, R. Lee, B. Estill, H. Huthsteiner, I. Davis, T. Passon.

Fourth row: S. Mintos, B. Hill, B. Christofferson, K. Paine, D. Burke, J. Craumer, F. Jackson, J. Brueggemann, H. Strauss, G. Woodworth.

Fifth row: D. DeWitt, B. Berger, D. Dombey, D. Dunham, G. Shaw, D. Kenat, H. Rankin, F. Mersbach, R. Woodson, B. Krukemeyer, E. Brown.

Football

Early this fall, forty prospective candidates turned out for the opening sessions of football practice. From this group a team was selected by Coach Homer Secrist to play for Bay.

Throughout the season the team suffered few injuries but had more than its share of the bad breaks. Three touchdowns were called back in a single game. It was a very successful season even though the defeats were more than the victories. All the boys who turned out enjoyed it immensely.

The lettermen were as follows:

Seniors: Tom Case, Dave Frazier, Bill Smith, Bob Schwing, Bill Quayle, Phil Senff, Steve Dodd, John Oliver, Bob Byar, Szilard Nyerges, and Jack Harris.

Juniors: Dan Aspery, Bob Estill, George Nyerges, and Harry Craig.

Sophomores: Don Carpenter, Dick Humphrey, and Jack Rossland.

Managers: Al Hruby and Tim Aspery.

SEASON RECORD

Bay	0	Bedford	19
Bay	0	Rocky River	32
Bay	6	Olmsted Falls	7
Bay	25	Rhodes Reserves	0
Bay	24	Fairview	6
Bay	6	North Olmsted	12
Bay	24	Westlake	6

Basketball

Starting its season with only three lettermen from last year's varsity squad that won sixteen straight games, this year's varsity had an impressive record of thirteen victories against two set-backs. Bay avenged its two defeats by winning decisive victories on its home court.

Bay has been undefeated on its home court for a period of two years and has lost but one game in three years at home. During the past three seasons our varsity has a record of forty-one victories and eight defeats.

Playing in the west side of the County League, Bay finished the season as division champions with a record of seven victories out of eight league games.

This year's varsity squad consisted of seven seniors and four sophomores. They were: Bob Schwing, Paul Ewry, Bill Quayle, Bill Smith, Jack Harris, Szilard Nyerges, Tom Toth, Don Carpenter, Jack Burke, Bob Byar, and Dick Humphrey. The starting line-up throughout the season was composed of all seniors. One of the main factors for the team's success lay in the fact that each of the five players was a scoring threat and a good team player. The team shot 50% of its fouls; this helped them win the close games.

The lettermen were: Bob Schwing, Paul Ewry, Bill Quayle, Bill Smith, Jack Harris, Szilard Nyerges, Bob Byar, and Jack Burke.

The season record was:

Bay	46	Independence	29
Bay	33	North Olmsted	29
Bay	39	Olmsted Falls	27
Bay	31	Rocky River	42
Bay	34	Fairview	27
Bay	42	Alumni	36
Bay	27	Strongsville	29
Bay	38	Westlake	31
Boy	46	North Olmsted	30
Bay	41	Fairview	40
Bay	46	Olmsted Falls	31
Bay	39	Rocky River	24
Bay	49	Strongsville	24
Bay	61	Avon Lake	27
Bay	46	Westlake	38
	618		459

During the season Bay scored an average of 41 points per game to its opponents' 30 points.

Bay entered the county tournament at Brooklyn Village and lost an exciting game to Cuyahoga Heights, 41-37.

The season was climaxed by a splendid banquet at the high school prepared by Mrs. Serb. Barbara Gascon had charge of the decorations and service. W. G. Bahner, County Superintendent, presented a trophy to Bay for winning the league championship.

First row: Mr. J. W. Shollenberger, J. Harris, B. Quayle, B. Schwing, B. Smith, T. Toth.
Second row: L. Frazier, S. Nyerges, D. Humphrey, J. Burke, P. Ewry, D. Carpenter, P. Senff.

25th Century

"Ladies and gentlemen of the radio and television audience! This is Nancy Ashcraft, your local announcer, greeting you from just outside the theater, where, in a few moments, the great preview of the movie 'Streak Norton' will begin. This preview is of particular interest as it is the first preview of this year, 2050 A. D.

"There are going to be a number of celebrities here this evening. Ah yes, here comes one now. Mr. Bob Byar just landed in the parking lot across the way in his brand new two-tone rocket ship. It's really a dream. Won't you say something, Bob?"

"Hi, folks, glad to be here. Thought for a few moments I wouldn't be—had a little motor trouble with my rocket ship, but I gave it a few vitamin pills and fixed it up fine."

"Thanks, Bob. And say, here's Julianne Hanushek wearing a perfectly stunning gas mask. Glad to see you here, Julianne."

"Oh, I must say I'm just teddibly glawd to be heah, too. I found it a bit difficult to find someone to substitute for me in my class of 'Remote Thought Control in Relationship to Seraphic Emanations'—but I finally succeeded, and here I am."

"I'm certainly glad you did, Jul—ouch! I say, my dear fellow, do you think that was quite necess—Oh, it's you, Bill. Well, what a surprise! Ladies and gentlemen, Mr. Bill Smith just dropped in by parachute. Of course, he missed his mark a bit; but that's to be expected—say a word, Bill?"

"Hello, everybody. Sorry I missed my landing, but I'm working on a new type of transportation, a cannon that shoots you exactly where you want to go. I've already got it perfected. All I'm waiting for now is an idea as to what's going to catch me when I get there—well, cheerio—see you around."

"Thanks, Bill, and say, here is Miss Carol Karcher in a perfectly drastically divine, new, polka-dot, plastic dress. Won't you say a word, Miss Karcher?"

"Yes, I want to ask you if you happen to have an extra compressed air pill? My rocket belt is completely defueled, and I have absolutely no way of getting up to my floating penthouse except by taxi, and they always make so much noise they wake the children."

"Certainly, Miss Karcher, here's one right handy here. Oh, oh—here is a telithiogram that just arrived saying Mr. Donold Young finds it impossible to be with us tonight. As you remember, Mr. Young set up housekeeping in a subterranean cave in order to test weather conditions. He sends his regrets, but they're having a mermaid's ball this evening, and he finds it impossible to leave.

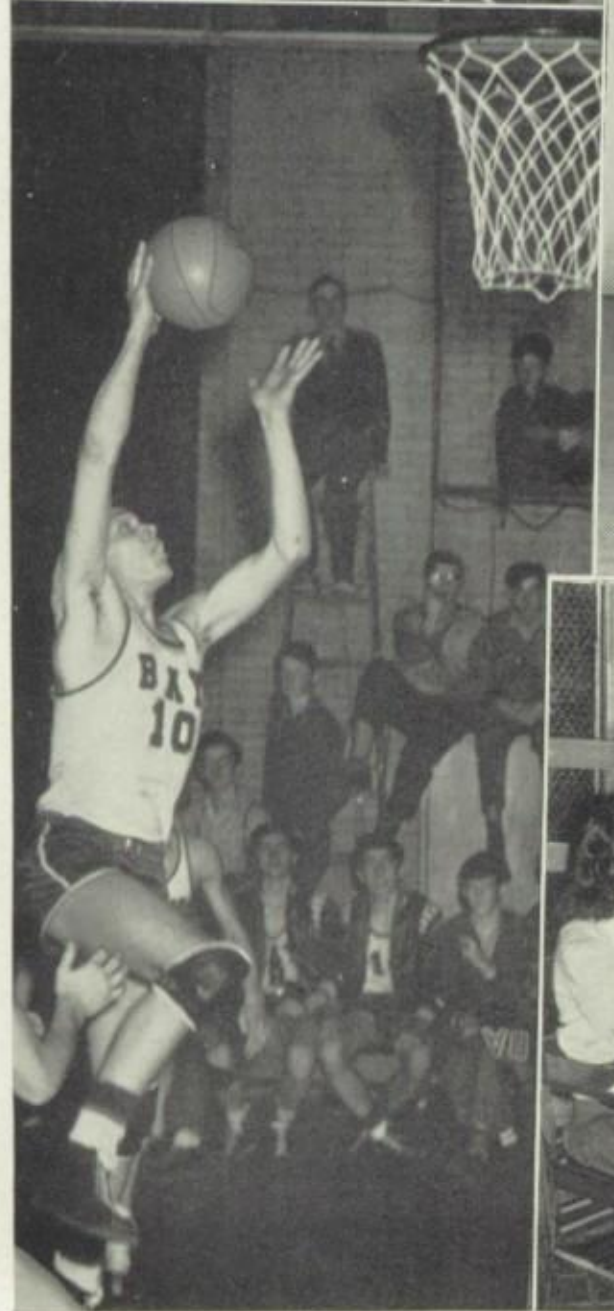

"Ladies and gentlemen, possibly you have not been observing by your television sets, but the street lights along the avenue here have been going out one by one, and here is the culprit, Miss Betty Dietrich. May I ask just what is your intention, Miss D.?"

"Oh, don't mind me, please. I just got a new 'ray gun' for Christmas, and I've been having just a wonderful time with it. So far, the only use I can find for it is putting out street lights."

"I suggest, Miss Dietrich, that you check it on the way in. Just a matter of precaution, of course. A strange space ship is approaching, folks—Oh, here it is—and who steps out but Miss Ardelle Oster, the 'Star' of the evening, dressed in a perfectly devastating stardust formal. Won't you say a few words, Miss Oster?"

"First call me 'Sunshine Sal'; au reservoir, Buddy. See you in the funny papers."

"Ladies and gentlemen, it has been said that Miss Oster's remarks relate back to a play in which she participated in high school. Only a rumor, though, of course! Just a moment, ladies and gentlemen, there seems to be a slight commotion around the outer edge of the crowd . . . Good heavens, a large hole is appearing right in the street! Why, it's Mr. Tom Case in some strang looking craft. Tom, what's this all about?"

On the bench . . . Climax . . . 3 against 1 . . . They're tops . . . Pass It! . . .
Here's hoping, Bill . . . Well! You have one . . . That's cheering, kids.

"Well, as you know, I've been down in China treating the natives to a course in 'Graft and Corruption and Its Merits' and didn't hear about this preview until today, and so the shortest way is the quickest, you know; so I hooked my old 'Chevy' motor onto my rocket ship and burrowed right up through Old Mother Earth."

"That's loyal support, I must say, Tom. I see approaching the microphone a lady who is well known to all of us, Miss June Craig. She, as you know, has established a home on the seventh moon of Saturn and is making a profession of raising baby Pleractalactyles, a small 'wolfish' appearing animal whose sole food is chewing gum. Won't you say a word, Miss Craig?"

"Oh, I'd be delighted. Ladies and gentlemen, as you know, I'm raising baby Pleractalactyles, but I have been unable as yet to find a use to humanity for them, so I'm holding a contest. All you have to do is send in one bomb shelter roof with your idea for a use. The person with the winning idea will receive in the mail Tuesday morning—one baby Pleractalactyle."

"Thank you, Miss Craig. I'm sure the radio audience will keep your valuable contest in mind. Ah, I see approaching now, Professor Senff, accompanied by his faithful robot. As you undoubtedly know, Professor Senff has been married a number of times; and, unable to find a wife to suit him, he has perfected a robot who obeys his every command to perfection. Won't you say a word, Professor?"

"Yes, yes, be glad to. I say, I would like to take this opportunity to remind all you people that I am sponsoring a course on 'Therapeutical Platitudes.' So any of you who are interested will please . . ."

"Sorry, Professor, but there is no advertising allowed on this broadcast. The crowd is applauding, ladies and gentlemen, so undoubtedly a celebrity is approaching. Why, so there is! Cast your eyes on Mr. Bill Quayle, wearing a sleek white evaporated milk smoking jacket, which he finds particularly appropriate for such occasions because it enables him to doze better, as the milk for the jacket comes from contented cows. Care to say something, Bill?"

"Just a word to remind everyone to be sure to fly around and see my 'Trackless Track Team' compete with the 'Baseless Baseball Players' this Saturday evening. See you there, folks."

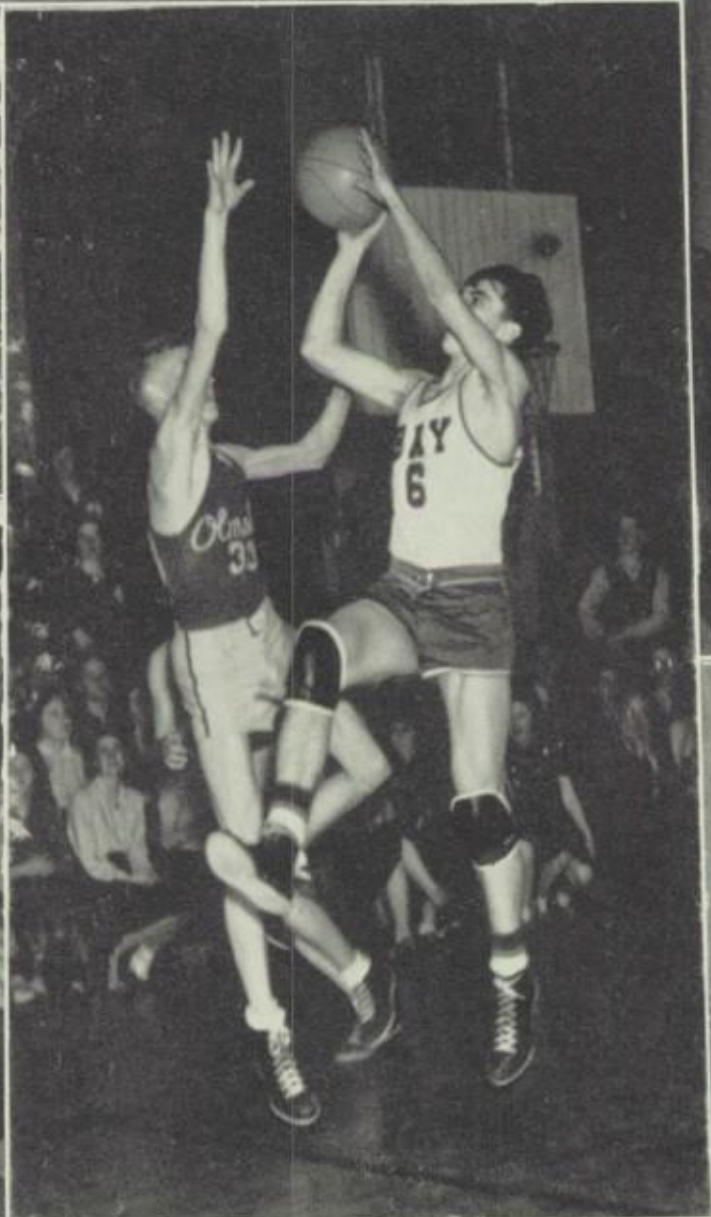

"Thanks, Bill, and undoubtedly we'll all be there. And now folks, I'd like Miss Mernie Monck to say a few words to you all."

"Cheerio again, ladies and gentlemen. This is Mernie Monck reminding you to slip on your rocket belt and jump down to your neighborhood drug store and buy our famous invigorated food capsules, flavored with strawberry, raspberry, cherry, orange, lemon and lime. We prove in fact what other capsules claim in theory: A full course dinner lasting thirty-six hours in one tiny capsule. So hurry down and get yours now, while the absolutely fresh supply lasts. Good-by, now, see you there."

"Thank you, Miss Monck. Mernie is now circulating among the crowd passing out free samples to everyone. Something just streaked out of the sky on my right here, folks. I can barely make it out. Oh, I see. It's a compressed air-powered glider, and that could mean only one person: Mr. Bob Schwing, the famous scientist, who gives a rather startling appearance as he approaches us now, in his synthetic rubber suit, heinie (?) hair-cut, and painted shoes. Won't you tell us what scientific problem you're working out now, Bob?"

"Why, shore! I'd be glad to. As you know, I have just perfected a type of artificial blood to insert into the human arteries when old age creeps up. Right now I'm busy perfecting a flexible artery to use also, because I find that many of my patients are afflicted with hardening of the arteries."

"Well, thanks, Bob, and I'm certain we all wish you the best of luck in your new experiment. That huge crashing, creaking, and grinding you hear, folks, is Miss Barbara Gascon approaching in her synchronized tank. Here she is now, stepping out of her tank dressed in a gorgeous spun-glass evening gown, adorned with tiny, delicate, plastic rosebuds. Won't you greet our audience, Barbara?"

Completed . . . Swinging it . . . Book nook . . . "Hack" has it . . . B for Bay . . . Sawing things up . . . Dance center . . . Tom, Dick and Harry.

"Thank you. I just want to say I know you people think I am a bit eccentric, running around in my tank; but let me warn you this younger generation will come to no good jumping around in these rocket belts and space ships. Just give me 'Susie' (that's what I call my tank), and I'll be satisfied."

"Thanks, Barbara. And speaking of queer methods of transportation, what is this rolling up? Why, it's Mr. John Oliver whizzing along on the last tire in existence. Hi there, John. Come on over and say a few words to the folks."

"I say, how are you getting on?"

"Just fine, John, and how about you?"

"Well, right now I'm exploring a few of Saturn's moons in outer space with the possibility of forming an empire of them. Just an idea, of course."

"Yes, John, of course. He gets ideas such as this often, ladies and gentlemen. I think the old saying, 'His studies were actively pursued but never effectually overtaken,' might account for a few of his actions. Anyway, thanks, John. It sounds as if another tank might be approaching. Why, no, it's Mr. Dave Frazier; but what he's driving, I couldn't tell you. I say, Dave, bring that thing up here to the mike, will you, and explain just what that is you're occupying?"

"Don't you know what this is? Well, it's a bit of a long story. You see, back in high school I drove an old Chevy around; and, by golly, I haven't seen a rocket ship yet that could beat it. No, sir! So, until they perfect one, I am perfectly content in my good old Chevy."

"All right, Dave, anything to keep people happy. I see approaching us now that famous authoress of that well-known book, 'The Art of Invisible Egg-Frying,'—Miss June McCleary. Accompanying Miss McCleary is Miss Gladys Massey, world-known typist, who has attained the world record speed of 387 words per minute. But only with the aid of 'hot jive' music is she able to accomplish this remarkable speed; so she has a small phonograph attachment on her typewriter. Won't you ladies say something to our listening audience?"

"No, really, we just want to say we're awfully glad to be here. We happened to remember this preview in the middle of the show up at the rocket ship drive-in theater."

"Well, thanks, girls. Glad you remembered it. And say, here at last is the star of the show, Mr. Steve Dodd, who plays the part of 'Streak Norton' in the picture of the same name. He certainly looks the part of that super-human character as he steps from his rocket taxi, removes his helmet and bows to the eager crowd. The glass shirt he is wearing accentuates those biceps of his even more than usual. Just a moment. He is posing for a picture to be taken by that ace-cameraman, Mr. Bill Bowles, who has just developed a new type of camera with a 'blond selector' attachment for candid cameras which spots and snaps pictures of all blondes even in 'black outs.' One moment, ladies and gentlemen. Here is that multi-millionairess, Miss I. J. Schmidt. Irma June, will you tell us how you acquired your immense fortune?"

"Why certainly, I'd be glad to. During the last World War II, I developed a substitute for sugar by solidifying and refining honey that dripped from the lips of candidates for political offices."

"Thank you, Miss Schmidt. And now there is a man who is well loved by all persons, one who used to be bashful, Mr. John Dahlstrom. Will you explain just once more, Mr. Dahlstrom, exactly what you have perfected for bashful people?"

"Certainly, Nancy, I'd be delighted to. It's really quite simple. I merely developed a serum from the backbone of a laughing hyena, which when injected into the bloodstream of a bashful person, immediately transforms him into the 'life' of any group."

"Thank you, Mr. Dahlstrom. Now I see passing into the theater the president of the National Women's Club Union, Miss Jacqueline Rogers. The union limits all club activities to no more than seven days in one week. It has been said that she has waxed wealthy from the dues collected."

"And now I see approaching Miss Peggy Smith and Miss Jean Bohland. If you'll recall, it was these two ingenious women who perfected food capsules exclusively for lunch boxes and banquets, and even some just for Sunday—not to mention those used just by males and females. It is small wonder that these two women can each afford a separate pent-house floating out over the ocean. Won't you girls say a few words?"

"No, we're sorry, but we ran into some air pockets with our rocket belts, and we got bounced around a bit, and our new hair-dos are a perfect mess, so we really must hurry in and 'slick up' . . . so, Ta, ta."

"Well, ta, ta, girls. Glad you made it. I see Mr. Jack Harris has just glided up here to the curb. You'll remember in World War II it became necessary to speed up education within a regulation term; and to aid the government, Jack solved the problem very nicely. His remedy was to fry some fish. This brain food taken according to his directions once every three days would develop all the gloss and veneer of a four-year college education within a regulation forty-hour week. It worked wonders during the war and is still being used for mentally backward people.

"Ah ha, and I see slipping in just under the wire in time for the curtain, Miss Betty Teeple and Miss Lila Ermer. Those two women put their heads together and 'cooked' up the idea of exterminating all mosquitoes. But finding that impossible, they cross-bred them and fed them rubber plants until—as you will notice today—all mosquitoes have rubber stingers, and when they bite you they bounce and keep bouncing till they wear themselves out."

"And here is Miss Ruth Bingelli, who, if you will remember, perfected a species of perfumed bees who suck nothing but the fragrance from the flowers. Now all you have to do if you're expecting guests is to call up the florist and order the use of a half dozen of those bees, and they will come out and completely perfume your whole home.

"Riding up now with their horse and buggy are Miss Bernice Damm and Miss Ruby Sedlon. These two refused to return to modern transportation methods after the lack of tires in World War II. They also have manufactured musical washing machines, featured at all prices and sudsed according to your preference—bass, soprano, or chorus.

"Ladies and gentlemen, that laughter you hear is a fair warning that the gag man of the radio, Mr. Paul Ewry, is shuffling in. He was just signed up by the Telepathy Television Company. It is said that he was given the contract because his art is literally doubled when the audience can see his face. Tsk, tsk! Won't you say something, Paul?"

"Conk-snor—toot-bang."

"Thanks! Ladies and gentlemen, it is rumored that Paul concocted these strange sounds somewhere back in high school.

"The two handsome fellows now approaching the microphone are Mr. Szilard Nyerges and Mr. Walter Wertman. These two men will go down in history as perfecting that small addition to your radio which makes it possible for you to tune in and pick up out of the air famous words that have been stated by famous persons. You may pick up such things as: Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Cleopatra making love to Mark Antony, or speeches made by those two candidates for 'Mayor for a day' in Bay Village.

"Well, folks, I hear the orchestra tuning up in there, so it must be just about time for the curtain to go up; so I think I'd better sign off and sneak in. Forty-two thanks for your listening time consumption, and goodnight."

ACT I

SCENE I

Time—Fall of 1930

Setting—First grade rooms in Forestview and Parkview Schools

Co-Directors—Miss Weinbroer and Miss Bonsey

As the curtain is rung up we see the following cast of characters:

On the Forestview stage—Mernie Monck, Barbara Gascon, Lila Ermer, Gladys Massey, Bill Smith, Nancy Ashcraft, and John Dahlstrom.

On the Parkview stage—Peggy Smith, Szilard Nyerges, Phil Senff, and June McCleary.

SCENE II

Setting—Second grade rooms in Forestview and Parkview Schools

Co-Directors—Miss Weinbroer, and Miss Bonsey

No new talent appears on the stage at Forestview. Julianne Hanushek takes the stage of Parkview for the first time.

SCENE III

Setting—Third grade rooms in Forestview and Parkview Schools

Co-Directors—Miss Jones and Miss Riley

Jackie Rogers replaces Phil Senff in Parkview's troupe. Forestview loses Bill Smith without a new stand-in.

SCENE IV

Setting—Fourth grade rooms in Forestview and Parkview Schools

Co-Directors—Miss Jones, Miss Forman

Downstage at Forestview Betty Teeple enters; Carol Karcher replaces June McCleary for a straight part at Parkview.

SCENE V

Setting—Fifth grade rooms in Forestview

Co-Directors—Miss Carroll, Mrs. Funke

All the great talent of Parkview clumps into the wings of Forestview plus two brand new troupers, Georgene Kick and David Frazier.

SCENE VI

Setting—Sixth grade room "Office" marked on the door) in Forestview

Director—Miss Dietz

The stage is filled with newspaper, for in this scene the sixth graders are giving a play involving a newspaper sale. Helping them tie all the papers are their new actors—Bob Schwing, Tom Case, and Bill Smith (who makes his first reappearance).

ACT II

SCENE I

Time—Fall of 1936

Setting—Room 202 in the Parkview building

Director—Miss Hayes

The first big intermission being over, the players don fresh make-up and new costumes and almost get stage fright from the piercing and critical eyes of the audience. Irma June Schmidt and Ardelle Oster make their first entrance a very dramatic one, by falling down stairs. Jack Harris, watching from backstage, wonders if he should join the actors nearer the footlights.

SCENE II

Setting—Same as Scene I

Director—Miss Hayes

Spinning milk bottles, dark closets, basement—all are settings for incidents dear to the entire cast. They proved especially memorable to Mernie Monck and Bob Schwing. Bob Byar and Don Young (better known as Joe) new amateurs heartily enjoyed and learned much from this scene.

ACT III

SCENE I

Time—Fall of 1938

Setting—Room 203 in Parkview

Director—Miss Nunvar

Bill Smith and Tom Case, having learned much stage technique, desert to play in another theater. Mary June Craig adds that southern touch, and Steve Dodd makes himself into one of the best stage hands. June McCleary takes a bow to the Bay Village audience in her second appearance.

SCENE II

Setting—Room 202

Director—Mr. Patterson

Tables, food, dancing, parties blend with an increasing tempo. Betty Dietrich and John Oliver make their debuts while Tom Case puts in his second appearance on the old familiar stage.

SCENE III

Setting—Room 303

Director—Miss Sebert

New lines, new costumes—mostly junior jackets—help to produce dramatic incidents. Class rings are bought and bestowed. Ruby Sedlon, Ruth Binggeli, Bill Quayle, and Bill Bowles pick up their cues and make auspicious entrances. Bill Smith darts in for his third appearance and Betty Teeple for her second.

SCENE IV

Setting—Room 301

Director—Mrs. Bortz

Dialogue comes now in verse. Phil Senff makes his re-entrance followed by Paul Ewry and Bernice Damm, who are making their first appearance on stage with Walter Wertman slipping in just in time for this last scene. This final episode is based on the Senior Prom, re-enforced by the Friendship formal, followed by Parents' Dinner and at last the Junior-Senior Dinner Dance. And now the curtain is rung down on the final clinch—of diplomas.
